

About Us

Â

ERP Minds is the leading global open source software services and consulting firm. Through our suite of applications, our global resources and technology partners, ERP Minds efficiently delivers secure, tested open source software to meet 100% of our clients' needs.

Â

Founded in 2001, ERP Minds' corporate office is located in Houston, TX. Our 4 offices (Houston corporate office, 2 U.S. locations, and 1 Hyderabad, India, location) support account management, high level business analysis and system architecture, strategic consulting and deployment services. Primary development, technical project management and other technical service delivery activities are conducted in ERP Minds' 2 global development facilities in Houston and India.

Â

It is our experience that time spent on transferring technical and business knowledge, documenting requirements and on-going project team collaboration is money saved over the project life-cycle. Therefore, we ensure each solution delivers business value by painstakingly articulating, confirming and documenting specifications interactively. We will work closely with you to prove value through a defined set of metrics by which you can measure real ROI. We will tie these metrics back to a combination of:

Â

Increased	revenue
Reduced	costs
Improved	process efficiency
Improved	communication
Greater	security

Â

We have set project management procedures and development processes that continuously manage and monitor adherence to scope, and our mission includes a strong commitment to improving our client's business.

Our primary objective throughout our client relationship is to consistently maintain your satisfaction and loyalty so that when you are presented with your next technology challenge you will turn to ERP Minds and open source software as your prime resource and preferred software choice.
